Foreword

The Foreign Mission Board takes pleasure in presenting a new edition of its Missionary Album, a book first issued in 1913. All members of the staff of the Board, at home and overseas, appear in their alphabetical order.

We are indebted to Miss Marjorie E. Moore for the painstaking care used in gathering the information literally from all parts of the earth for this book. Conscientious effort has been made in the interest of accuracy, to the extent of numerous letters to seminary, university, and college registrars, to missionary parents and friends, and by air to missionaries abroad to verify suspicious dates or place names.

Despite such time and effort in the preparation of copy, mistakes may occur for several reasons: The personnel records of the home office were not kept up to date during the "dark ages" of the Board for lack of adequate clerical staff. Busy missionaries have little interest in such routine matters as personal questionnaires, and overlook minute errors in biographical data submitted for approval. Long careers condensed to a fifteen-line block of type, required by the book's format, were necessarily abbreviated to the point of serious omission of detail.

We solicit your help in reporting to the editor all errors in spelling, date, and fact, in order that corrections may be made in the second edition when published.

It is our hope that this book may be used to strengthen the ties of personal comradeship of our family of missionaries with each other and with all Southern Baptists.
